The baronetcy of Gresley is one of the oldest, having been conferred, 29 June, 1611, on Sir George Gresley, of Drakelow, of whom Dugdale makes mention as being "a gentleman of good parts and a great encourager of learning"

At the time of the Conquest, Nigel, son of Roger de Toeny, with his brothers, Robert, afterwards Lord Stafford, and Ralph, the ancestor of the Cliffords, accompanied their kinsman, Duke William, to England, and was rewarded for his services by grants of numerous lordships in the counties of Derby, Leicester, and Stafford. His son, William, fixed his residence at Castle Gresley, in Derbyshire, and founded there the priory of SS. Mary and George. Abont three centuries afterwards they removed to Drakelowe, in the lordship of Gresley, which has continued to be the family seat ever since, and has been in possession of the Gresleys since the time of the Conquest.

Lineage.

The name of "Giffard," which signifies the "Liberal," is of great antiquity in the county of Devon.

Of this ancient and widely-spread family the Devonshire branch (which has intermarried with some of the oldest and most distinguished families in the West of England, as notably the COURTENAYS, GRENVILLES, LEIGHS of Northam, CHAMPERNOWNES of Dartington, FORTESCUES, BAMFYLDES of Poltimore, TREMAYNES of Collacombe, DABERNONS, CORYTONS, CHICHESTERS, WYNDHAMS of Orchard-Wyndham, and many others) deduces its descent from

ROBERT GIFFARD, described as maternally descended from the GIFFARDS, Earls of Buckingham, settled at Whitchurch, near Tavistock, in the reign of HENRY II., and was possessed of considerable property in that neighbourhood. In the reign of HENRY III. the possessions of Robert Giffard had passed to Sir Walter Giffard of Weare-Giffard, whose brother, Sir Roger Giffard, of Awlescombe, Milford, and Clovelly, m. Anne, dau. of Sir William Brewer, of Buckland Brewer, and by her left three sons, Matthew, Philip, and Bartholomew. Upon the death of Matthew and Philip, s.p. male, Sir Roger's estates passed by co-heiresses to the powerful houses of Stanton and Mandeville, Weare-Giffard, Whitchurch, and Lamerton, by the marriage of Sir Walter Giffard's dau., Emma, with Sir H. Widworthy, passed to that family, and afterwards, by successive marriages, to the families of DINHAM, TREWIN, FILLEIGH, and Densell. Elizabeth Densell, by her marriage with Martin Fortescue, brought Weare-Giffard to that family, in whose possession it still remains, and thus the two elder branches of the race of Giffard became extinct. In the reign, however, of EDWARD I.

BARTHOLOMEW GIFFARD, a younger son of this family, and great-grandson of Robert Giffard, of Whitchurch, m. Jone, dau. and heiress of PETER DE HALSBURY*, in the parish of Parkham, and in this branch the name continued, according to Sir William Pole, through eight descents. Bartholomew Giffard was s. by his son,

BALDEWYN GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. Jane, and was s. by his son,

JOHN GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. Sybilla, and was s. by his son,

WALTER GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. Isabell, and was s. by his son,

JOHN GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. the dau. and co-heiress of Richard Deuclive, by whom he had two sons, I. THOMAS, his heir; II. Andrew, from whom GIFFARDS of Theuborough in Sutcombe descended. The elder son,

THOMAS GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. Wilmot Knight, and was s. by his son,

JOHN GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. Jane, dau. and co. heiress of John Dabernon, of the family of Dabernon, of Dunsland, by whom he had a son,

THOMAS GIFFARD, Esq. of Halsbury, m. 1st, Avis, dau. of John Dennis, Esq. of Orleigh, and Eleanor Giffard, his wife. By her he had a son,

* Halsbury thus acquired continued to be the chief residence of the Giffards from the time of EDWARD I. to that of HENRY VIII., in whose reign Sir Roger Giffard, Knt., founded the fortunes of the Brightleigh branch of the family. Halsbury, however, continued in the elder line till the middle of the 17th century, when John Giffard, Esq. of Halsbury, dying s.p., left Halsbury to Roger Giffard, Esq., the 2nd son of Col. Giffard, of Brightleigh. This Roger Giffard dying also s.p. left Halsbury to his great-nephew, Roger Giffard, the 2nd son of Henry Giffard, of Brightleigh. This Roger, the second inheritor of Halsbury, sold that ancient possession about the year 1750, and himself died a few years afterwards. Thus passed away from the Giffards an estate which had been in their possession for about five centuries.

John, of Halsbury, m. 1st, into the family of Sidenham, of Orchard, co. Somerset, 2ndly, into the family of Speke, same county, and 3rdly, Ibot, dau of Richard Attwood, Esq. of Ashridge, and Emma Beare, his wife, by whom he had, with other issue, a son and successor,

Thomas, of Halsbury, m. Margaret dau. of Anthony Monck, Esq. of Potheridge, and Mary Arscott, his wife, by whom he had, with other issue, a son and successor,

John, of Halsbury, m. Alis, dau. and co-heiress of Nicolas Smyth, of Totnes (whom Pole describes as a "man of good rancke inhabiting the same"). Mr. Giffard had issue (from the younger son, Anthony, descended Giffard of Landcross), and was s. by the eldest son,

John, of Halsbury, m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of Edward Tremayne, Esq. of Collacombe, and Elizabeth St. Leger, his wife. He left several children, of whom his son and successor, John Giffard, Esq. of Halsbury (living in the time of Risdon), m. Elizabeth, dau. of Arthur Champernown, Esq. of Dartington Hall, and Bridget, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Fulford, of Great Fulford. Mr. Giffard d. without male issue, and left Halsbury to Roger Giffard, 2nd son of Col. Giffard, of Brightleigh. (See note.) Several other branches of the Halsbury line flourished in different parts of co. Devon, at Milton Damarel, and also at Westleigh, To the former of these the Poet, Humphry Gifforde (1580) belonged.

Thomas Giffard, of Halsbury, m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of John Coryton, Esq. of Newton St. Quethiock, co. Cornwall, and by her had,

Sir Roger Giffard, Knt., of Brightleigh, m. in the reign of Henry VIII., Margaret, dau. and sole heiress of John Cobleigh, Esq. of Brightleigh, parish of Chittlehampton.* Sir Roger thus founded the fortunes of the Brightleigh branch, which became wealthier and more important than the older line of Halsbury. He had six sons, Brice, a monk of Kelso, who, through Friskin's influence, became Bishop of Moray (1203); Alexander, who became sheriff of Elgin; and three churchmen, who respectively became archdeacon, dean, and a canon of Moray. His son and heir, SIR ARCHIBALD, of Douglas, attained knighthood, witnessed charters between 1190 and 1232, held Hailes from the monks of Dunfermline, and had a grant of Levingston and Hirdmanston from the Earl of Fife. He is said to have acquired other lands by marriage with Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir John, of Crawford. From Sir Andrew Douglas, probably his younger son, sprang the important line of Dalkeith, from whom the Earls of Morton descend (see MORTON, E. OF).

SIR WILLIAM DOUGLAS, apparently eldest son of the last, appears on record from 1240 to 1273. In 1255 he was one of the Scottish partisans of HENRY III. of England; and in 1257 is found in possession of the manor of Fawdon, in Northumberland, by gift of the king's son, afterwards EDWARD I. He had two sons, Hugh and William.

SIR WILLIAM DOUGLAS, named "the Hardy." He, in 1267, had his head nearly severed from his shoulders when defending his father's English manor from a foray of the men of Redesdale. In 1287 he carried off, at the head of an armed band, his future wife, Eleanora, of Lovaine, from the manor of the La Zouches, at Tranent. He joined Wallace in 1297, for which her lands of Douglas were wasted, and his wife and children carried off by Robert Bruce, the young Earl of Carrick, then a partisan of England. Afterwards, submitting to EDWARD I., he was imprisoned in York Castle, and d. there, circa 1302. He owned lands in one English and seven Scottish counties, viz., Northumberland, Berwick, Edinburgh, Fife, Lanark, Ayr, Dumfries, and Wigton. He had three sons, JAMES, HUGH, and ARCHIBALD. The eldest.

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS, "the good Sir James," Bruce's companion-in-arms during the war of succession, the hero of seventy-fights, is said to have won them all but thirteen. Besides numerous charters from ROBERT I., of Eskdale, Galloway, Ettrick Forest, &c., he had the famous "Douglas Emerald Charter," erecting all his lands into a regality. He was slain in Andalusia, in 1303, on his way to the Holy Land with the heart of his royal master. He was unmarried, but had an illegitimate son, ARCHIBALD "the Grim," eventually 3rd Earl of Douglas.

HUGH of Douglas, brother and successor of the "Good Sir James," conveyed the family domains, in 1342, to Sir William Douglas, son of his younger brother, Archibald.

ARCHIBALD of Douglas, brother of the two last, Regent of Scotland, fell at Halidon Hill, 1333. Lineage.

This is a branch of the illustrous house of Hamilton, of which the Duke of Abercorn is the Chief. It springs from ALEXANDER DE HAMILTON, 2nd son of Sir James de Hamilton, Lord of Cadzow, by Janet, dau. of Sir Alexander Livingstone, of Callendar, and next brother of the first Lord Hamilton, who espoused the Princess MARY of Scotland. He had a charter in 1449, from Alexander, Earl of Crawford, wherein he was styled "Alexander de Hamilton, of Quhitecamp, afterwards Silvertonhill." In a charter of settlement of the Hamilton estates, granted to his brother, the first Lord Hamilton, of date 23rd October, 1455, this Alexander was called next in succession after his brother's family. He left two sons, James, his heir.

William, ancestor of the Hamiltons of Westport.

The elder son,

James Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, in a charter of settlement of the Hamilton estates, granted to his cousin-german James, 1st Earl of Arran, of date 16th June, 1512-13, was placed very near in the family succession. He m. a dau. of the family of Douglas, with whom he got the lands of Newton, in the barony of Drumsarguard, and by whom he had issue, John, his heir; and a dau., m. to James Livingstone, ancestor of Viscount Teviot. He was s. by his son,

He m. a dau. of Sir John Somerville, of Camnethan, and d. in 1535. His son and heir, Andrew, predeceased him, leaving two sons, Andrew and Alexander. He was s. by his grandson, Andrew Hamilton, of Silvertonhill (son and heir of Andrew Hamilton), living in 1541. He m. a dau. of James Hamilton, of Stanehouse, and d. in the beginning of the reign of Queen Mary, leaving issue an infant son,

Andrew Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, who was carefully educated under the guardianship of his uncle, Alexander. He m. Elspeth, a dau. of Baillie of Carfin, by whom he had issue several children, but only one son survived him,

Francis Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, a very enthusiastic, wrong-headed man. He fancied himself bewitched by Dame Isabel Boyd, Lady Blair, which appears by several extravagant petitions to parliament from him in 1641. He d. not long after this, having greatly squandered away the family estate; and as he never was married, this branch of the family expired, and the representation devolved on the descendants of his grand-uncle, Alexander; which

Alexander Hamilton, tutor of Silvertonhill, got from his father the lands of Goslingtown, which sometime continued to be the title of his family. He m. Catherine Hamilton, by whom he had issue,

Sir Andrew Hamilton, of Goslingtown. This gentleman was a faithful and loya subject of Queen Mary, who conferred on him the honour of knighthood. He was at the battle of Langside, for which he was attainted, but had his possessions restored to him by the treaty of Perth, in 1572. He d. in 1592, and was s. by his son,

I. Sir Robert Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, a steady loyalist, and in great favour with Charles I., who made him a Baronet of Nova Scotia about the year 1646. He sold Provan to the city of Glasgow, and otherwise burdened his paternal estate. He m. the Hon. Anne Hamilton, 2nd dau. of John, 1st Lord Belhaven, by whom he had (with a younger son, Thomas, who d. s. p. in France, and daus., Margaret, m. John Hamilton, 2nd Lord Belhaven; Anne, m. Sir Walter Craigie, of Garnie; Elizabeth, m. Capt. Lineage.

The Barony of Dacre was originally in the family of Vaux, whereof three brothers settled in England, at the Conquest, viz., Hubert, Ranulph, and Robert. Of these,

Hubert had the barony of Gillesland granted to him by his kinsman, Ranulph de Meschines, on whom William had conferred the whole co. of Cumberland. This Hubert was s. by his son, Robert de Vallibus, who founded the priory of Pentney, in Normandy, and the abbey of Lanercost, in Cumberland, and was sheriff of Cumberland and governor of Carlisle, temp. Henry II. This Robert was not only a person of great valour, but also well learned in the laws of the land, and went justice-itinerant into Cumberland in the 24th year of the same monarch. Dying without issue, the feudal barony devolved upon his brother,

Ranulph de Vallibus, or Vaux, whose great-granddau. and heir, Maud, m. Thomas de Moulton, temp. Henry III., and conveyed the barony of Gillesland to the family of her husband. The great-grandson of this marriage,

Thomas de Moulton, was summoned to parliament in the reigns of Edward I. and Edward II. He left at his decease an only dau. and heir,

Margaret de Moulton, who married

Ranulph de Dacre, one of the most distinguished persons in those parts, as well on account of his valour as a soldier, as his illustrious birth, being descended from William de Dacre, sheriff of Cumberland and governor of Carlisle, in the reign of Henry III. He was summoned to parliament, in right of his wife, from 15 May (14 Edw. II.), 1321, to 15 Nov. (12 Edw. III.), 1338, in which latter year he died, and was s. by his eldest son,

William, 2nd Baron Dacre, who was s. by his brother, Ranulph, 3rd Baron Dacre, who was likewise s. by a brother.

Hugh, 4th Baron Dacre. This nobleman m. Ela, dau. of Sir Alexander Maxwell, Lord of Caerlaverock; and dying in the 7th of Richard II., was s. by his son,

William, 5th baron; who m. Joan, dau. of James, 1st Earl Douglas, and was s. by his son,

Thomas, 6th baron, summoned to parliament from 1 Dec. (14 Henry IV.) 1412, to 26 May (33 Henry VI.), 1455, as Thomas, Lord Dacre, of Gillesland. This nobleman, who was chief forester of Inglewood, in Cumberland, m. Philippa, dau. of Ralph Nevil, Earl of Westmorland, and had issue, Thomas, Ranulph, Humphrey, and Joan. Thomas, the eldest son, m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Richard Bowes, and dying before his father, left an only dau. and heir, Joane; which

Joane Dacre s. her grandfather in 1547; and marrying

Sir Richard Fienes, carried the barony into that family. Sir Richard was summoned to parliament from 9 Oct. (38 Henry VI.) 1459, to 15 Nov. (22 Edward IV.) 1482. He was constable of the Tower of London, lord-chamberlain to the queen-consort of Edward IV., and a privy-councillor. His lordship and his lady had great contests and disputes with Sir Humphrey Dacre, her ladyship's uncle, and the male heir of the family, concerning the lordships, manors, &c., of the late lord, which litigation was finally adjusted by the arbitration of Edward IV. That monarch, after hearing the cause, confirmed to Sir Richard and the Lady Joane, the same place and precedence that her grandfather had and enjoyed; and also decreed to them certain lordships in Lancashire and Lincolnshire; but Gillesland, the ancient and capital seat of the Vauxes, and of all the barons their descendants, was adjudged, together with the best of the estates in Cumberland, to Sir Humphrey Dacre. It was provided, however, in case of failure of heirs male of Sir Humphrey, that the whole estate should go to Lady Joane and her heirs. At the same time, Sir Humphrey Dacre was created Lord Dacre, of Gillesland, with place next beneath Sir Richard Fienes (who was simply styled Lord Dacre) and his lady. Sir Richard's descendants were distinguished as Lords Dacre of the South, and those of Sir Humphrey, Lords Dacre of the North. (For details, see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.) Sir Richard Fienes, Lord Dacre, d. in 1484, and was s. by his grandson, THOMAS, 8th Baron Dacre (son of Sir Thomas Fienes and his wife, Alice, eldest dau. and co-heir of Henry, Lord Fitz Hugh). His lordship m. Anne, dau. of Sir Humphrey Bourchier, son of John Bourchier, Lord Berners, and had one son,

Thomas (Sir), m. Jane, dau. of Edward, 8th Lord Dudley, by Lady Jane Stanley, his wife, dau. of Edward, 3rd Earl of Derby, K.G., and d. v.p., leaving a son,

THOMAS, s. his grandfather as 9th baron.

Lord Dacre d. 1534, was s. by his grandson,

THOMAS, 9th baron. This nobleman was high in favour at the court of HENRY VIII.; but going, with other young men, one night, from Hurstmonceux, to steal a deer out of his neighbour Sir Nicholas Pelham's park (a frolic not unusual in those days), a fray ensued between some of his party and the park-keepers, in which one of the latter received an unlucky blow, that caused his death in a few days afterwards; and although Lord Dacre was not himself present on the spot, but in a distant part of the park, he was nevertheless tried, convicted, and executed for the murder, in 1541, when his honours became forfeited. In 1562, however, those honours were restored to his son and heir (by Mary, dau. of George Nevill, Lord Abergavenny), GREGORY FIENES, as 10th baron; who was summoned to parliament in 1573. This nobleman d. in 1594, without issue, when his sister,

MARGARET, the wife of Sampson Lennard, Esq., of Chevening, High Sheriff co. Kent, 33 Queen Elizabeth, claimed the barony from Queen Elizabeth, who referred the claim to the Lords Burleigh and Howard, who admitted the claim, but the matter not being quite concluded before the Queen's death, it was again laid before Commissioners, 2 JAMES I., and was allowed 8 Dec. 1604. Her ladyship d. in 1611, and was s. by her eldest son,

HENRY LENNARD, as 12th Lord Dacre; who m. Chrisogona, dau. of Sir Richard Baker, of Sissenhurst, in Kent; and dying in 1616, was s. by his only son,

Lineage.

The antiquity of this family is beyond dispute: it is manifest from the foundation of the monastery at Kenilworth that it flourished in the reign of Henry I., and it appears to have assumed the surname from one of the Pakingtons, in Staffordshire, Warwickshire, or Leicestershire, for in each of those counties we meet with lordships so designated, the proprietors of which wrote themselves anciently De Pakington.

Robert Pakington, living in the reign of Henry IV. was father of John Pakington, recited in an office found before Robert Russel, escheator of the county of Warwick, 14 Henry VI. He left a son of his own name,

John Pakington, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Thomas Washbourne, Esq. of Stanford, in the county of Worcester, and had three sons, namely,

i. John (Sir), of the Inner Temple, constituted chirographe of the Common Pleas in the 24th of Henry VII., during life, and elected, 11 Henry VIII., Lent reader; and in the 20th of the same reign, treasurer of the society of the Inner Temple, in which year he had a grant from the king, "that he, the said John Pakington, for the time to come, shall have full liberty during his life, to wear his hat in his presence, and his successors, or of any other persons whatsoever, and not to be uncovered on any occasion or cause whatsoever, against his will and good liking; also that he shall not be appointed, called, or compelled to take the order of knighthood, or degree, state, or order of a baron of the Exchequer, sergeant-at-law, or any office or incumbrance thereto relating." In 1532, he was called to be sergeant-at-law, for which the king gave him a special discharge for taking the said degree, and having been appointed a justice of North Wales, was, in 1535, commissioned to conclude and compound all forfeitures, offences, fines, and sums of money due to the king or his father, Henry VII. In 1542. he had a patent for justice of Brecknock, Glamorgan, and Radnor, in South Wales, during life having a grant of all the manors belonging to the monastery of Westwood, in the county of Worcester, and soon after received the honour of knighthood. The many other honours conferred upon him are too numerous to be recorded here. At the time of his death, 1560, he was seised of thirty-one manors, and of other lands that he had purchased of seventy different persons, as appears by a large book concerning his estate, which was preserved amongst the family testimonials. Sir John Pakington's wife was Anne, widow of Tychbourne, and of the family of Rolle. She d. 22 Aug. 1563. His fortune was divided between his two younger brothers, Robert and Humphrey, and his daughters,

He afforded valuable assistance at Busaco, the Douro, and Torres Vedras, at Badajoz, and Ciudad Rodrigo; he contributed not a little to the victory of Albuera, and we find him again at Salamanca and Vittoria, at Nivelle, Nive, and Orthes. He was wounded at Vittoria; he lost his hand under Blucher at Ligny. After the peace he filled many high ministerial offices; he was clerk of the ordnance in 1823, and secretary-at-war and P. Lineage.

This illustrious house, so renowned in the cabinet and the field, derives its surname from the seaport of Hastings, in Sussex (the lastage of which its senior members farmed for many years from the crown), and deduces its pedigree from Robert de Hastings, Portgrave of Hastings, Lord of Fillongley, in Warwickshire, and dispensator, or steward, to WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR. The successor of this Robert was

WALTER DE HASTINGS, who became steward to HENRY I, as owner of the manor of Ashill, co. Norfolk, a grant from the crown, upon the condition of taking care of the naperie (table-linen) at the coronation. From this Walter descended

HENRY, LORD HASTINGS, who m. Ada, 4th dau. of David, Earl of Huntingdon, by Maud, dau. of Hugh, sister and co-heir of Ranulph, Earl of Chester (see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage, article MESCHINES, Earls of Chester), and was s. by his only son,

HENRY, LORD HASTINGS, who, adhering to Simon Montfort, Earl of Leicester, against HENRY III, was knighted, and made governor, by that nobleman, of the castles of Scarborough and Winchester in 1264, and in the following year of Kenilworth Castle. This feudal baron m. Joane, dau. of William, and sister and co-heir of George de Cantilupe, Barons of Bergavenny; and dying in 1268, was s. by his elder son,

JOHN DE HASTINGS, Lord Hastings and Bergavenny, seneschal of Aquitaine, and, in 1290, one of the aspirants to the Scottish throne in right of his grandmother, Ada, who was niece to MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM THE LION, Kings of Scotland. This nobleman had summons to parliament from 1295 to the time of his death. He m. Isabel, dau. of William, and sister and co-heir of Aylmer de Valence, Earls of Pembroke, by whom he had two sons and three daus.; the second of which daus., Elizabeth, m. Roger, Lord Grey de Ruthyn. His lordship m. 2ndly, Isabel, 5th dau. of Hugh Despenser, Earl of Winchester, and had two sons. He d. 9 March, 1312-13, and was s. by the elder son of the first marriage,

JOHN, LORD HASTINGS, Bergavenny and Weishford, governor of Kenilworth Castle in 1323; who d. in 1325, and was s. by his only son,

LAURENCE, who, upon the decease of his grand-uncle, Aylmer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, s. p., was created Earl of Pembroke, by patent dated 13 Oct. 1339; a dignity that expired with John, 3rd earl, who was accidentally slain in a tournament by Sir John St. John, at Woodstock. This terminated the elder branch of the noble house of Hastings; but a younger, deriving from

THOMAS DE HASTINGS, great-grandson of Walter de Hastings, steward to HENRY I. and elder son of William de Hastings, by his 2nd wife, Ida, dau. of Henry, Earl of Ewe, laid the foundation of the present Earldom of Huntingdon. From this Thomas lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM DE HASTINGS, Knt., who was nominated by EDWARD IV. master of the Mints at London and Calais, steward of the honour of Leicester, and of the manors and castles of Donnington, Higham Ferrers, and Daventry; and created by the same monarch, 26 July, 1461, Baron Hastings of Ashby-de-la Zouch, when his lordship was installed a knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter. His lordship m. Catharine, relict of William, Lord Bonvile and Harington, and dau. of Richard Nevil, Earl of Salisbury, by whom he had four sons and two daus. In 1465, we find this nobleman entering into an agreement with Dame Elizabeth Grey, late wife of Sir John Grey, Knt., and heir of Edward Grey, late Lord Ferrers, that he should have the wardship of her son, Thomas, afterwards Marquess of Dorset, on whose part it was stipulated that he should, within five or six years afterwards, marry the eldest dau. of Lord Hastings that might then be living. His lordship about this time undertook, in his capacity of master of the Mint, a new coinage of gold, consisting of pieces of eight shillings and fourpence sterling each, called nobles; other pieces of one-half; and a third, of one-fourth that value. For several years afterwards Lord Hastings was one of the most powerful persons in the kingdom. In 1474, he obtained a license from EDWARD IV. to impark three thousand acres of land and wood in Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and he accordingly built, at Ashby, a magnificent castle for the residence of his family, which it continued to be for two hundred years. This castle was afterwards remarkable as the temporary prison of MARY, Queen of Scots. Of his lordship FULLER says: "The reader needeth not my di candle to direct him to this illustrious person, whom Ki EDWARD IV., or rather Edward Plantagenet (because mo in human than in his royal capacity), so delighted in th he made him his lord-chamberlain, Baron Hastings Ashby-de-la-Zouch," &c. Lord Hastings fell a victir eventually, to the Protector Gloucester (RICHARD III and was beheaded in the Tower, 13 June, 1483, when h estates were confiscated, but soon afterwards restore partly by RICHARD and the remainder by HENRY VII., his son,

EDWARD, K.B., 2nd baron; who having m. Mary, dau and sole heir of Thomas, Baron Hungerford, Botreaux Moulins, and Moels, had been summoned to parliamen 15 Nov. 1482, as Lord Hungerford. By this union his lor ship had a dau., Anne, who became the wife of Thom Stanley, Earl of Derby, and after his decease, of John Ra cliffe, Lord Fitz-Walter; and a son, his successor, at h demise, 8 Nov. 1507,

GEORGE, 3rd baron. This nobleman attended HENRY VIII in 1513, at the taking of Terouenne and Tournay, and wa created by that monarch, 8 Dec. 1529, EARL OF HUNTING DON. His lordship m. Anne, dau of Henry Stafford, 2n Duke of Buckingham, and widow of Sir Walter Herber Knt.; and dying 21 July, 1544, was s. by his eldest son, FRANCIS, 2nd Earl, K.G.; who m. Katherine, dau. and c heir of Henry Pole, Lord Montagu, and granddau. Margaret, Countess of Salisbury (which Margaret was dau and sole heir of George Plantagenet, Duke of Clarenc brother of EDWARD IV.). On New Year's day, 1553, we fin this nobleman presenting to EDWARD VI., in a purse of re silk, five sovereigns and eight half-sovereigns; and receiving i return a gilt cup and cover, weighing twenty ounces. Hi lordship d. 20 June, 1561, having had six sons and fiv daus.; of the youngest dau., the beautiful Lady Mar Hastings, the following circumstance is related: "Joh Vassilivich, Grand Duke and Emperor of Russia, having desire to marry an English lady, was told of the Lady Mar Hastings, who being of the blood royal, he began to affect whereupon making his desires known to Queen ELIZABET who did well approve thereof, he sent over Theodor Pissemskoie, a nobleman of great account, his ambassador who, in the name of his master, offered great advantages t the queen in the event of the marriage. The queen her upon caused the lady to be attended with divers ladies an young noblemen, that so the ambassador might have sight of her, which was accomplished in York Hous Garden, near Charing Cross, London. There was the envo brought into her presence, and casting down his count nance, fell prostrate before her, then rising, with his fac still towards her (the lady with the rest admiring his strange salutation), he said, by his interpreter, 'sufficed him to behold the angelic presence of her who, h hoped, would be his master's spouse and empress.'" Lineage.

The great antiquity and high respectability of this family are clearly proved by an ancient and copious pedigree, preserved in the College of Arms, accompanied by a great number of family deeds, fines, wills, &c., to several of which are affixed their seals of arms; which pedigree is continued down to the Visitation of 1620, in the reign of King JAMES I. The first ancester we find on record is in the year 1103, being the third year of the reign of King HENRY I., when Galfridus Miles had his seat at Northcote, in the parish of East Down, in the co. of Devon. He was s. by John, his son, styled "Johannes, filius Johannis Galfride Miles, habitantis in Northcote, in parochia de East Down, in Devon; mutavit nomen cum loco." Thus, says an ancient record, late in the possession of Thomas Wescote, gent. This John was s. by Galfridus de Northcote, in 1118, of whom it is observed, "Galfridus de Northcote tenet in Northcote unum fœdium de Abbate de Tavistock in manerio de Burington et hundred de North Tawnton." He held lands also in Colston, in Witheridge Hundred, and had two sons, viz., WILLIAM and Walter. William de Northcote, eldest son, m. Margarite de Afeton, dau. of Robert de Afeton, in 1190, the issue of which marriage were three sons, viz., Walter, ANDREW, and Edmund. Andrew de Northcote, the 2nd son, m. Matilda Faber, eldest dau. of Peter Faber, of Bovytracy, in Devon, in the 17th year of the reign of King EDWARD I., and had issue three sons, viz., WILLIAM, Robert, and Edmund. WILLIAM DE NORTHCOTE, the eldest son, m. Matilda Hillion, dau. and heiress of Robert Hillion, 19th EDWARD II. (1325), and had two sons, viz., JOHN and Andrew. He was s. by the eldest son, JOHN DE NORTHCOTE, who, in 1343, being the 16th year of the reign of King EDWARD III., m. Johanna Meoles, the 2nd dau. and co-heir of Roger Meoles, by his wife Avis, sole heir to Sir William le Prouse. The family of Northcote gained great possessions by this marriage, and her two sisters being also married, the eldest to John Damerel, the youngest to Wibery, a great inheritance was divided amongst them, as may be seen by a writ of partition, dated in the 14th year of King EDWARD III.; the issue of this marriage were two sons, viz., JOHN, and Robert. From the elder, John, descended,

JOHN NORTHCOTE, Esq. of Crediton, named in the Herald's Visitation of Devon, living 12 HENRY VIII., m. Alice, dau. of John Durk, and was father of

His lordship, 3rd son of the late Sir Benjamin-Lee Guinness, Bart., and brother of Arthur-Edward, Lord Ardilaun, was created a Bart., 27 May, 1885, and raised to the Peerage, 19 Jan. 1891.

Lineage.

The territory of Iveagh in Dalradia (now co. Down), was in early times the appendage of the family of Magennis. In 1380, when Edmund Mortimer arrived in Ireland, various native chiefs waited upon him, and amongst others, Art Magennis "the Lord of Iveagh." The name occurs in the public records of Ireland at a very early period, and its various forms of spelling, FitzGuennys, McGuinez, Guinez, Guineys, are given in the State Papers of Ireland, viz.: "As to the rest that cam over with him (O'Neyll, Earl of Tyrone) we made McGuinez, Knight, soo as now he must be called Sir Dol Guinez, and also made Arthur Guinez, Knight." (Calendar of State Papers, 1542, p. 429.) In the reign of James I. Sir Arthur Magennis, of Rathfriland, in the co. Down, was created Viscount Magennis of Iveagh in the Peerage of Ireland. That title is supposed to have become extinct in 1693.

Should at any future time a descendant of the Viscounts Magennis be able to establish a right to their Viscounty of Magennis, the new creation of Baron Iveagh would in no way clash. There would simply be a Viscount Magennis and a Baron Iveagh, the former a Viscount of Ireland, the latter a Baron of the United Kingdom.

Richard Guinness, of Celbridge, in the co. of Kildare, b. about 1680, the great-great-grandfather of Lord Iveagh, is described in a Bill in Equity Exchequer, 10th Feb. 1746, as "Richard Guinis, Agent or Receiver to the Most Rev. Arthur Price, Archbishop of Cashel," and is therein authorised to demise episcopal lands. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Wm. Read, Esq., of Hutton Read, co. Kildare, and by her (who was b. 1698 and d. 28 Aug. 1742) had, with other issue, an eldest son, ARTHUR GUINNESS, Esq. of Beaumont, co. Dublin, b. 1725, who in a Bill filed in the Court of Exchequer, 30 May, 1747, styles himself "of the city of Dublin, Gentleman." Sir Eyre Coote, KB. in the Carnatic, during the invasion of Hyder Ali, until the battle and siege of Cuddalore. A general peace soon after taking place, Captain Kennaway returned to Bengal; was appointed, in 1786, aide-de-camp to Marquess Cornwallis, and sent by his lordship, in 1788, as envoy to the court of Hyderabad, to demand from the Nizam the cession of the maritime province of Guntoor, which, contrary to treaty, had for many years remained in his highness's possession. Captain Kennaway was in this embassy eminently successful, and soon after concluded with the Nizam a treaty of alliance against Tippoo Sultan, for which services his majesty was pleased to create him a Baronet, 25 Feb. 1791, and the Court of Directors of the East India Company to take out his patent at the public expense. In 1792, he was appointed, by the Marquess Cornwallis, commissioner to adjust, in concert with agents of the Nizam and the Mahrattas, a preliminary and definitive treaty of peace with the commissioners of Tippoo Sultan, by which the latter prince ceded half his dominions, and agreed to the payment of three millions three hundred thousand pounds to the three allied powers, for the expenses of the war, and to deliver up two of his sons as hostages for the due performance of the treaty. Lord Kingsale enjoys the hereditary privilege (granted by King JOHN to De Courcy, Earl of Ulster) of wearing his hat in the royal presence.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN COURCY, having distinguished himself temp. HENRY II. in that monarch's wars in England and Gascony, was sent into Ireland, in the year 1177, as an assistant to William Fitz-Adelm, in the government of that kingdom. Sir John having prevailed upon some of the veteran soldiery to accompany him, invaded the province of Ulster with twenty-two knights, fifty esquires, and about three hundred foot-soldiers, and after many hard fought battles, succeeded in attaching that quarter of the kingdom to the English monarchy, for which important service he was created, in 1181 (being the first Englishman dignified with an Irish title of honour), EARL OF ULSTER. His lordship continued in high favour during the remainder of the reign of his royal master, and performed prodigies of valour in Ireland; but upon the accession of King JOHN, his splendour and rank having excited the envy of Hugh de Lacie, appointed governor of Ireland by that monarch, the Earl of Ulster was treacherously seized while performing penance, unarmed and barefooted, in the churchyard of Downpatrick, on Good Friday, anno 1203, and sent over to England, where the king condemned him to perpetual imprisonment in the Tower, and granted to Lacie, all the earl's possessions in Ireland. After de Courcy had been in confinement about a year, a dispute happening to arise between King JOHN and PHILIP-AUGUSTUS of France concerning the Duchy of Normandy, the decision of which being referred to single combat, King JOHN, more hasty than advised, appointed the day, against which the King of France provided his champion; but the King of England, less fortunate, could find no one of his subjects willing to take up the gauntlet, until his captive in the Tower, the stout Earl of Ulster, was prevailed upon to accept the challenge. But when everything was prepared for the contest, and the champions had entered the lists, in presence of the Kings of England, France, and Spain, the opponent of the earl, seized with a sudden panic, put spurs to his horse, and fled the arena; whereupon the victory was adjudged by acclamation to the champion of England. The French king being informed, however, of the earl's powerful strength, and wishing to witness some exhibition of it, de Courcy, at the desire of King JOHN, cleft a massive helmet in twain at a single blow. The king was so well satisfied with this signal performance, that he not only restored the earl to his estates and effects, but desired him to ask anything within his gift, and it should be granted. To which the earl replied, that having estates and titles enough, he desired that his successors might have the privilege (their first obeisance being paid) to remain covered in the presence of the sovereign, and all future kings of England; which request was immediately conceded. This heroic warrior and able statesman d. in France, about the year 1219. Giraldus Cambrensis asserts that Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, d. without lawful issue, and this statement seems to be corroborated by the omission of the name of any child in the numerous endowments made to monasteries by De Courcy and his brother-in-law, Reginald, King of Man. In those charters of endowment no mention ever occurs of any child of Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, among the various relations whose souls are to be prayed for.

MILO DE COURCY, upon whom HENRY III. conferred, in the 7th year of his reign, A.D. 1223, the Barony of Kingsale and Ringrone, co. Cork, is named in the Rot. Pat. 6 King JOHN, as a hostage for the appearance of Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, and is described therein as "Milo, filius Johannis de Courcy, junioris." For five centuries afterwards, the honours descended regularly.

The same year, in observance of the ancient privilege of his house, he appeared in the presence of WILLIAM III. covered, and explained to that monarch, when his majesty expressed surprise at the circumstance, the reason, thus:—"Sire, my name is Courcy; I am Lord of Kingsale, in your majesty's kingdom of Ireland; and the reason of my appearing covered in your majesty's presence, is to assert the ancient privilege of my family, granted to Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, and his heirs, by JOHN, King of England." The king acknowledged the privilege, and giving the baron his hand to kiss, his lordship paid his obeisance, and continued covered. He d. in 1719, without issue, leaving MARGARET, wife of William Ireland, Esq. his sole surviving sister and heiress. That lady's descendants are the IRELANDS of Low Park, co. GERALD, 24th baron, grandson of Patrick, the 20th baron (being son of the Hon. Miles de Courcy, by Elizabeth, youngest dau. and eventually sole heir of Anthony Sadleir, Esq. of Arley Hall, co. Warwick). This nobleman, upon being presented to GEORGE I. by the Duke of Grafton, then lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 13 June, 1720, had the honour of kissing his majesty's hand, and asserting his ancient privilege, and was presented to GEORGE II. by Lord Carteret, then lord-lieutenant, 20 June, 1727, when his ancient right was again admitted. Lineage.

This family, deriving its surname from Bruges, in Flanders, is said to have fixed its abode near Reading, in the reign of Henry VII.

Col. Roger Burges, a gentleman of considerable fortune in the co. Berks, and a stanch cavalier, successfully opposed Cromwell himself, by holding out for the king the town of Faringdon; of this affair an account is given in Rushworth's Historical Collections (1645). He was afterwards taken prisoner at the battle of Naseby. Eventually he succeeded to the command of Castle Cornet, and the protection of the Island of Guernsey, in which he showed the greatest gallantry and protracted defence after the submission of every royalist garrison in the British dominions. This submission, however, and the fatal results of the battle of Worcester (1651), rendering further resistance useless, he finally surrendered to Colonel Bingham, but received the most honourable terms. His successor,

John Burges, also a distinguished cavalier, left, by Ann his wife, a son,

James Burges, of Greyslee, his successor, b. 1686. He d. in 1755, leaving, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Robert Jones, of Guilsfield, co. Montgomery, among other issue, James, whose descendants are extinct, and,

Lineage.

The Earls of Kerry trace their origin to a common ancestor in the direct line with the houses of Fitzgerald, Windsor, Carew, Grace, &c., namely, Walter Fitz-Otho, Castellan of Windsor in the eleventh century; whose eldest son, Gerald Fitz-Walter, obtained a grant from Henry I. of Molesford, co. Berks. This Gerald m. Nesta, dau. of Rhys ap Gruffydd, Prince of South Wales, and had issue, Maurice Fitzgerald, ancestor of the Earls of Kildare and Dukes of Leinster.

William, of whom presently.
David, consecrated 1147, Bishop of St. David's, and d. 1176.

The 2nd son,

William is called by Giraldus Cambrensis the eldest son; but the pedigree of the Dukes of Leinster state the contrary; William being possessed of the castle of Karru, co. Carmarthen, in South Wales, his mother's inheritance, and assuming that surname would seem, however, to denote that he was a younger son, which is confirmed by the unerring testimony of the addition of a chief, ermine, to his coat-armour (a certain sign of cadency, to distinguish him and his posterity from the elder branch of the family). This William was sent, in 1171, by Earl Strongbow, into Ireland, with his son, Reymond, where, for a time, he assisted in the reduction of that kingdom; but returning to his native country, he died in the year 1173, leaving, by Catherine, his wife, dau. of Sir Adam de Kingsley, of Cheshire, seven sons and a dau. The eldest son,

Reymond, surnamed, from his corpulency, Le Gros, having, as stated above, accompanied his father into Ireland, was a principal in the reduction of that kingdom. After this we find him aiding MacCarthy, Chief of Carbery, against his rebellious son, Cormac, and acquiring for his services a large tract of land in the co. of Kerry, where he settled his 2nd son,

Maurice Fitz-Raymond, who m. for his 1st wife, Johanna, dau. of Meyler Fitz-Henry, founder of Conall Abbey, co. Kildare, and chief governor of Ireland, by whom he had a son,

Lineage.

he family of Coke, from which the Earl of Leicester ives through female descent, and which he now repre-ts, is deduced by Camden, from

William Coke, of Didlington, in the co. of Norfolk, ntioned in a deed, anno 1206, who was father, by his e Felice, of

Geoffrey Coke, of Didlington, from whom descended

Sir Edward Coke, the celebrated lawyer. This eminent son the son of Robert Coke, Esq. of Mileham, co. rfolk, and Winifred, his wife, dau., and one of the rs of William Knightley, of Morgrave-Knightley, in the ne shire, was born at the seat of his father, in 1549. m. 1st, Bridget, dau. and co-heir of John Paston, q. of Huntingfield Hall, Suffolk, 3rd son of Sir William ston, of Paston. His 2nd wife was Lady Elizabeth, u. of Thomas Cecil, first Earl of Exeter, and widow Sir William Hatton, Knt. Coke's first alliance brought n honours and preferments as well as wealth. The ies of Coventry and Norwich soon after elected him ir recorder. The county of Norfolk returned him parliament, and the House of Commons placed him in e Speaker's chair. In the 35th of Elizabeth (16 June, 2), Mr. Coke was appointed solicitor, and 10 April, e next year, Attorney-General. In 1603, he received the nour of knighthood from King James I. at Greenwich, l in three years afterwards was elevated, 30 June, 1606, the bench, as chief-justice of the Court of Common Pleas, m which he was advanced, 25 Oct. 1613, to be Chief-Justice the Court of King's Bench. Sir Edward, afterwards pporting energetically the privileges of the Commons, s committed to the Tower in 1621, and dismissed the vy council. In 1628, he was elected M.P. for cks, and then was distinguished for his strong and quent adhesion to the side of the Commons. His last blic act was his proposing and framing the famous tition of Right. Camden, in his Britannia, says, nat he was a person of admirable parts, than whom, as ne ever applied himself closer to the study of the law, never did any one understand it better. Of which, he y convinced England, by his excellent administration many years together, whilst attorney-general, and by executing the office of lord chief-justice of the Common Pleas with the greatest wisdom and prudence; nor did he give less proof of his abilities in his excellent reports, and commentaries upon our laws (especially his Commentary on the Tenures of Littleton), whereby he has highly obliged both his own age and posterity." Sir Edward Coke d. at his house at Stoke-Pogis, Bucks, 3 Sept. 1633, at the advanced age of eighty-three, and a lofty pillar near commemorates his residence there. A noble monument, with inscriptions, was also erected to his memory at his burial place, Tittleshall church, Norfolk, with his effigies habited in judge's robes, lying at full length, under a canopy supported by two marble pillars. The LEICESTERS (or LEYCESTERS, as formerly written) are of very great antiquity in the co. Chester, and were possessed of land there in the time of King JOHN. Lineage.

The ancestors of this noble family assume their surname from the township of High Leigh, co. Chester, where they were seated before the Conquest.

HAMON DE LEIGH, lord of the moiety of High Leigh, temp. HENRY II., was great-grandfather of

RICHARD DE LEIGH, of High Leigh, whose dau.,

AGNES LEIGH, m. 1st, Richard de Lymm, and had a son, THOMAS, who assumed the surname of LEIGH, and was ancestor of the LEIGHS of West Hall, High Leigh. She m. 2ndly, William de Hawardyn; and 3rdly, William Venables, by whom she had a son, who took his mother's name of Leigh, and was,

JOHN LEIGH, of Booths, co. Chester, who, by his 1st wife, Ellen, dau. of Richard Dent, of Cheshire, had a son, JOHN, ancestor of the LEIGHS of Booths, now represented by PETER LEGH, Esq. He m. 2ndly, Ellen, dau. of Thomas Corona, of Adlington, and had a son,

ROBERT LEGH, of Adlington, who m. 1st, Sibil, dau. of — Hanford, of Hanford, in Cheshire; and 2ndly, Maud, dau. and heir of Adam de Norley, of Norley. By his first wife he had a son, ROBERT, ancestor of the LEGHS of Adlington; and by his second wife, another son,

SIR PIERS LEGH, who had Lyme granted to him, and who in his early youth served in the wars of France, and bore the standard of Edward the Black Prince at the battle of Crecy, and there took prisoner the Count de Tankerville. Sir Piers was a devoted adherent of the Black Prince's son, RICHARD II., and lost his life in the cause of that monarch. He was beheaded at Chester, in 1399, by command of the Duke of Lancaster, afterwards HENRY IV. who ordered his head to be set on one of the highest turrets of that fortified city. Sir Piers m. 1388, Margaret, widow of Sir John Savage, of Clifton, Kent, and dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Dammery of Bradley, one of the most distinguished warriors at the battle of Crecy, and had two sons, viz., I. PETER (Sir), created a Knight-Banneret by HENRY V., and slain at the battle of Agincourt, 24 Oct. 1415; ancestor of the LEGHS of Lyme; and II. JOHN, of Ridge. The 2nd son,

JOHN LEGH, Esq. of Ridge, which estate he acquired by his wife Alice, dau. and heir of John Alcock, had two sons, I. ROGER, ancestor of the LEGHS of Ridge; and II. RICHARD. The younger son,

RICHARD LEIGH, was seated at Rushall. His son,

Roger Leigh, of Rushall, had issue, William, ancestor of the Leighs of Rushall; and a younger son,

Sir Thomas Leigh, Knt., a merchant of London, and lord-mayor in 1558, m. Alice, dau. and heir of John Barker, otherwise Coverall, of Wolverton, and niece of the opulent citizen, Alderman Sir Rowland Hill, of whose wealth she inherited the greater part. Thomas Leigh served the office of sheriff of London, and was lord mayor at the death of Queen Mary Tudor. He was knighted during his mayoralty, and dying 17 Nov. 1571, was buried in Mercer's Chapel, London. Sir Thomas's widow lived at Stoneleigh to a very advanced age, having seen her children's children to the fourth generation. She d. in 1603, and was buried at Stoneleigh, where she had founded an hospital for five poor men and five poor women, all of them to be unmarried persons, and to be nominated after her decease by Sir Thomas Leigh, her son and his heirs for ever. Sir Thomas Leigh, the elder, left issue by this lady,

i. Rowland, his heir.

ii. Thomas (Sir, Knt.), of Stoneleigh, created a Baronet in 1611, whose grandson and successor, Sir Thomas Leigh, the 2nd baronet, a stanch cavalier, and M.P. for the co. of Warwick, temp. Charles I., was, for his zeal in the royal cause, elevated to the peerage, by letters patent dated at Oxford, 1 July, 1643, as Baron Leigh, of Stoneleigh, in the co. of Warwick. He had pleased the king particularly in one matter, which was this. Charles, on his way to set up his standard at Nottingham, marched to Coventry; but finding that the gates were shut against him, and that no summons could prevail with the mayor and magistrates to open them, he went the same night to Sir Thomas Leigh's house at Stoneleigh, and there his majesty met with a warm and loyal welcome, and right plenteous and hospitable entertainment from his devoted subject, Sir Thomas. Sir Thomas becoming Lord Leigh, persevered in his ardent attachment to royalty, and at one time paid no less than £4,895 as a compensation for his estate. He had the gratification, however, of seeing the monarchy restored. His lordship m. Mary, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Egerton, eldest son of Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, and dying 22 Feb. 1671, was s. by his grandson, Thomas Leigh, 2nd baron, whose great-grandson and last male heir,

LEINSTER.

Leinster, Duke of (Maurice FitzGerald) Marquess of Kildare, and Earl of Kildare, co Kildare, Earl and Baron of Offaly, co. Kildare, in Ireland; Viscount Leinster, of Taplow, co. Buckingham, in Great Britain; and Baron Kildare, in the United Kingdom; b. 1 March, 1887; s. his father as 6th Duke, 1893. His Grace is the Premier Duke, Marquess, and Earl of Ireland.

Lineage.

The FitzGeralds are descended from "Dominus Otho," who is supposed to have been of the family of Gherardini of Florence; and this notion is confirmed by the Latin form of name, Geraldini, assumed by his descendants. This noble passed over into Normandy, and thence, in 1057 into England, where he became so great a favourite with Edward the Confessor, that he excited the jealousy of the Saxon Thanes. However derived, his English possessions were enormous, which, at his death, devolved on his son

* By the death of Sir John Roger Kynaston, last Baronet of Hardwicke, co. Salop, in 1866, and his sister, Mrs. Sutton, in 1867, the Kynaston claim to the long dormant barony of Powys, or Cherleton, is vested in the descendants of this Lady Leighton, who are now represented by the Rev. George-Augustus Salusbury, of Brynbella, rector of Westbury, co. Salop; the co. heiress of the Rev. Charles Leicester (vide de Tabley, B.); Charles Cholmondeley, Esq. (vide Delamere, B.); the Rev. Frederick Leicester (vide de Tabley, B.), and William-Lacon Childe, Esq. of Kinlet.

Walter Fitz Otho, who, it is somewhat remarkable, was nated after the Conquest as a fellow-countryman of the rmans. In 1078, he is mentioned in Domesday Book as ng in possession of his father's estates; he was castellan Windsor, and warden of the forests in the co. of Berks.
is fortunate heir put the cope-stone to his prosperity by marriage with Gladys, the daughter of Rhiwallon ap ifyn, Prince of North Wales; and had three sons, Gerald Fitz Walter, his successor.

Robert, surnamed De Windsor. Baron of Eston, co. Essex.
William, also surnamed De Windsor, ancestor of Windsor, Baron Windsor.

e eldest son,

Gerald Fitz Walter, was appointed by Henry I., constable of Pembroke Castle and President of that co. and m.
sta, dau. of Rhys ap Gruffydd, ap Tudor Mawr, Prince South Wales, by whom he had three sons, Maurice, his heir.

William, ancestor of the families of Carew, Grace, Fitzmaurice, and Gerard.
David, Bishop of St. David's, d. 1176.

e eldest son,

Maurice FitzGerald, was the patriarch of the Irish aldines. In 1168, Dermot Mac Murrogh, King of nster, driven from his territory by Roderick O'Connor, ng of Ireland, sought assistance from the English, and ceeded in enlisting in his cause the renowned Richard Clare, Earl of Pembroke. Having reached St. David's, his way back to Ireland, Dermot was hospitably received David FitzGerald, Bishop of the diocese; and at the pre's persuasion, his younger brother, Maurice, and his f-brother, Robert Fitzstephen, engaged to assist Mac rrough with their forces. Soon after, Maurice embarked Ireland, with two ships containing a small body of diers, and after having been invested with the lordship Wexford, marched forward and took Dublin. But the sh king was no idle or unconcerned spectator of this ievement. In 1171, he had gathered such an increase of ength that though Maurice was by this time joined by ongbow, Roderick was able to invest Dublin with 30,000 n, while at sea he blockaded it with a fleet of thirty nx vessels. The case of the English, with only 600 ops, seemed well nigh desperate. In this emergency, by urice's advice and carnest and inspiriting exhortations, beleaguered garrison determined to trust to their perior warlike prowess and daring, and regardless of the parity of numbers, to encounter the foe. The bold ploit was crowned with success; the Irish were comtely defeated, and the king, Roderick, with difficulty aped. Maurice died at Wexford in 1177, and was ried in the Abbey of Grey Friars, outside the walls of t town. He m. Alice, dau. of Arnulph de Montgomery, son of Roger de Montgomery, who led the centre of the rman army at Hastings, by whom he left five sons, of om the eldest was William, Baron of Naas; Gerald, second, was Baron of Offaly; and Thomas, the third, s ancestor of the Earls of Desmond. The second son,

Gerald Fitzmaurice, summoned to Parliament, as ron Offaly, in 1205, and died the same year: his son l heir, by Katharine, his wife, daughter of Hamo de lois, lord chief justice of Ireland in 1197, was Maurice Fitz Gerald, the second baron of Offaly. He re the name of his grandfather, the gallant companion of ongbow, and was not unworthy of it. Piety, it is evident, med a strong ingredient in his character: for, in 1216, he roduced into Ireland the order of the Franciscans; in 9, that of the Dominicans; and, in two years after, he ilt the Franciscan Abbey of Youghal. As a statesman, second Lord Offaly exhibited considerable ability in the ce of lord justice of Ireland, and as a soldier he seems to ve fallen little short of his gallant predecessor, Maurice zGerald. He d. eventually in 1257, in the Monastery of ughal. He m. Juliana, dau. of John de Cogan, lord tice 1247, and had three sons,

I. Maurice, his successor.
II. Gerald, m. Johanna, dau. of Sir Geoffrey de Geneville, Lord of Trim, and had issue,

John, who s. as 6th Baron Offaly, and was created Earl of Kildare.

e eldest son,

Maurice Fitzmaurice, s. as 3rd Baron Offaly. This noble-n, who was afterwards chief governor of Ireland, m. Emelina de Longespée, heiress of the territory of O'Murthy which included Kilkea and Castledermot, and dau. of Sr Stephen de Longespée, and had a son and two daus.,

Mabel, d. unm. Juliana, m. Thomas de Clare.

He d. at Ross, 1277, and was s. by his son,

Gerald, 4th Baron Offaly, who founded the Franciscan Abbey, at Clane, in 1271, d. s. p. at Rathmore, 1287, and was buried at Kildare. He was s. by his cousin,

Maurice, 5th Baron Offaly, who m. Agnes de Valence, dau. of William, Earl of Pembroke, but d. s. p., when he was s. by his cousin,

John Fitzthomas FitzGerald, Lord Offaly. There is a tradition connected with John FitzThomas which explains the origin of the crest now used by the Offaly Geraldines. While an infant, he was in the Castle of Woodstock, when an alarm of fire was raised; in the confusion that ensued the child was forgotten, and on the servants returning to search for him, the room in which he lay was found in ruins. Soon after a strange voice was heard in one of the towers, and on looking up, they saw an ape, which was usually kept chained, carefully holding the child in his arms. The Earl afterwards, in gratitude for his preservation, adopted a monkey for his crest; and some of his descendants in memory of it, took the additional motto "non immemor beneficii." The life of John Fitz-Thomas FitzGerald, 1st earl of Kildare, the child thus miraculously preserved, abounds in adventures that would form a fitting subject for romance. For his good services the English monarch (Edward II.) created him, by patent dated at Westminster, 14 May, 1316, Earl of Kildare, and assigned to him the town and castle of that name. He m. Blanche, dau. of John Roche, Baron of Fermoy, and had issue, Gerald, d. young. 1303. Thomas, s. as 2nd earl.

Joan, m. 1302, Sir Edmund Butler, created 1315, Earl of Carrick-MacGriffin, ancestor of the Earls, Dukes, and Marquises of Ormonde.
Elizabeth, m. Sir Nicholas Netterville, ancestor of the Viscounts Netterville.

The earl d. 10 Nov. 1316, and was s. by his son,

Thomas, 2nd earl, appointed Lord Justice of Ireland 1320, and again in 1326, on the accession of Edward III. He m. 16 Aug. 1312, the Lady Joan de Burgh, 3rd dau. of Richard "the Red," Earl of Ulster, by whom (who m. 2ndly, 3 July, 1329, Sir John D'Arcy, Lord Justice of Ireland, and d. 22 April, 1359) he had three sons, John, b. 1314; d. 1323. Richard, his successor.

Maurice, who s. as 4th earl.

The earl d. at Maynooth, 9 April, 1328, and was s. by his son,

Richard, 3rd earl, b. 1317, who d. s. p. at Rathangan, 7 July, 1329, aged 12 years, when he was s. by his brother,

Maurice, 4th earl, b. 1318. In 1347 he was summoned to attend Edward III. with thirty men-at-arms and forty hobellers, and in consequence he accompanied the King to France; was present at the siege of Calais, and received the honor of knighthood for his gallant conduct. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Bartholomew Burghersh, K.G., by whom he left at his decease, 25 Aug. 1390, two sons, Gerald and John. The elder son,

Gerald, 5th earl, Lord-Deputy to Thomas, Duke of Gloucester (son of Henry IV.), Lord Lieutenant; m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir John Rochford (who had been granted in ward to his father by Richard II.), and had, a son, Thomas, who d. s. p., and a dau. Joan, wife of James, 4th Earl of Ormonde. He d. 1410, and was buried in the Grey Abbey at Kildare, when he was s. by his brother,

John, 6th earl, surnamed "Cam." He strengthened and enlarged the Castle of Maynooth, then "one of the largest and richest Earl Houses in Ireland," and for a century the residence of the earls. He m. Margaret de la Herne, and d. 17 Oct. 1427, leaving an only son his successor, Thomas, the 7th earl. This nobleman was appointed, in 1454 and 1455, lord-deputy of Ireland, and was continued in the government of Ireland until 1459. In 1468, he was appointed lord-chancellor of Ireland, but being involved with the Earl of Desmond, he was attainted with that nobleman (who suffered death), but subsequently pardoned, set at liberty, and restored in blood, by act of parliament. His lordship was afterwards lord-justice; and, in 1471, deputy to George, Duke of Clarence. He m. Lady Joan Fitz-Gerald, dau. of James, 7th Earl of Desmond, by whom, who d. 1486, and was buried at the Monastery of Adare, he had four sons and two daus.

GERALD, his successor.
Thomas (Sir), of Laccagh, appointed 1484 Lord Chancellor of Ireland; slain at the Battle of Stoke, on the side of Lambert Simnel. James. Maurice.
Eleanor, m. Con More O'Neill, chief of his sept. Anne.

The earl d. 25 March, 1477, and was s. by his eldest son, GERALD, 8th earl, called Geroit More, who was constituted, on his accession to the peerage, Lord-Deputy to Richard, Duke of York, and held a parliament at Naas, on Friday, after the feast of St. Petronelle the Virgin. In 1480, he was re-appointed lord-deputy; and again, upon the accession of HENRY VII., deputy to Jasper, Duke of Bedford, the lord-lieutenant. Upon the arrival, however, of Lambert Simnel, and his tutor, Richard Simon, an Oxford priest, in Ireland, the Lord-Deputy Kildare, the chancellor (Thomas Fitzgerald, the deputy's brother), treasurer, and other nobles in the York interest, immediately acknowledged the impostor, and had him proclaimed in Dublin, by the style of EDWARD VI.; and the lord-deputy assisted with the others at his coronation in Christ's Church, 2 May, 1487. In the engagement which afterwards decided the fate of Simnel, near Stoke, the chancellor, Fitzgerald, fell; but the Lord-Deputy had the good fortune to make his peace with the King. And well, both by his fidelity and his talents as a statesman and a soldier, did the great earl repay the king's confidence. Perkin Warbeck, on his landing at Cork in 1497, was successfully opposed by the Earls of Kildare and Desmond, and narrowly escaped being taken prisoner. For this good service, King Henry conferred on Kildare several manors in the counties of Warwick and Gloucester. With a strong hand, too, Kildare controlled and subdued the native chieftains. In 1504, he marched against Clanricarde, who had formed a confederacy of several Irish chiefs in opposition to the royal authority, and fought and gained the Battle of Knock Tuagh. For this good service Kildare was created a Knight of the Garter. The days of this great man were now drawing fast to a conclusion. In 1513, he marched against Lemyvannon, or O'Carroll's Castle, now called "Leap Castle," in the King's County; but as he was watering his horse in the river Greese, at Kilkea, he was shot by one of the O'Mores, of Leix, and after lingering for a few days, he died of his wound, and was buried in his own chapel, at Christ Church, before the high altar. Holinshed describes him as a "mightie man of stature, full of honoure and courage, who had bin lord deputie and lord justice of Ireland three and thirtie yeares. Kildare was in government milde, to his enemies sterne. He was open and playne, hardly able to rule himself when he was moved; in anger not so sharp as short, being easily displeased and sooner appeased." The great earl m. 1st, Alison, dau. and co-heir of Rowland Eustace, Baron of Portlester, and had, by her, one son and six daus.,

e earl was s. by his only son,

GEROIT OGE, i.e. GERALD, the younger, the 9th Earl of Kildare, Lord-Deputy, incurred the jealousy of the English government, and was deprived of his high office. What was yet worse, he unluckily drew down upon himself the hatred of Wolsey, and nearly lost his head in consequence, but the stout Earl weathered the storm which had well nigh foundered him, and even again attained to his former dignity; but it was only to relapse into suspicion and disgrace. He was once more called over to England and recommitted to the Tower. Before his departure from Ireland, he constituted his son Thomas, Lord Offaly, vice-deputy; and strictly enjoined him to be "wise and prudent," and to submit in all things to "the sounde and sage advice of the council." Nevertheless, "the hot a active temper" of the young lord could not be restraine The murder of Archbishop Alen, perpetrated by l followers, led to the severe sentence of excommunicati pronounced against him; which being shown to the o Earl in the Tower, had such an effect on him, that he di shortly after, of a broken heart. His remains receiv sepulture within the tower walls, in St. Peter's Church, a sorry recompense for all his services. The earl was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

THOMAS, 10th earl, b. in England, 1513. Some time before his father's death a report reaching Ireland that the earl was to be beheaded, Lord Thomas threw off his allegiance to the English crown. From this moment the adventures of THOMAS, 10th EARL OF KILDARE, known (from the fringes on the helmets of his retainers) as "Silken Thomas," would form no uninteresting chapter of a romance. His subsequent career fully corresponded with this commencement. For a length of time he resisted, successfully, the famous lord deputy, Skeffington, with all the support that England could afford him, or that he derived from such of the native Irish septs as had been previously hostile to the earl, or were bought over by the hope of present advantage. When, finally, deserted by the last of his allies, Kildare found himself obliged to surrender, it was upon a promise, that he should receive a full pardon on his arrival in England. But this pledge was shamefully violated by HENRY VIII. For sixteen months the earl was incarcerated in the Tower of London, and then, together with his five uncles, two of whom had always been stanch adherents of the king, was hanged, drawn, and quartered at Tyburn, on the 8th of February, 1537, being then but twenty-four years of age. He m. Frances, dau. of Sir Adrian Fortescue, but had no issue. Though attainder followed, the House of Kildare was not destined to perish. His half-brother,

GERALD, 11th earl, b. 25 Feb. 1525, then a minor, only twelve years old, became the male representative of the Geraldines. So great was the sympathy in his favour, from one end of Ireland to the other, that the English Government became, beyond measure, anxious to get him into their power; but all their efforts were in vain to corrupt the fidelity of those to whose charge he had been entrusted. By them he was safely conveyed to the Continent, where he found a welcome reception; and, though the English monarch was successful in having him dismissed from one place of refuge after the other, yet he could not persuade any one of his friendly allies to give the boy up. At length, he obtained a safe retreat in Rome, with his kinsman, Cardinal Pole, who caused him to be educated, and subsequently sent him, at his own desire, upon his travels. He afterwards entered the service of Cosmo de Medici, Duke of Florence, who appointed him Master of his Horse. Returning to England, after the death of King HENRY, in company with some foreign ambassadors, he was present at a masque given by EDWARD VI. The earl m. 28 May, 1554, Mabel, dau. of Sir Anthony Browne, K.G., and had issue,

Lineage.

GALFRID DE MALEVILLE, the first of the family on record, lived in the reigns of DAVID I., MALCOLM IV., and WILLIAM the Lion. He was "Vicecomes de Castella Puellarum" for MALCOLM IV., and had the honour of being the first known justiciary of Scotland. He left three sons, viz.,

I. Gregory, whose line terminated in an heir female,

AGNES MELVILLE, who m. Sir John Ross, of Halkhead, temp. ROBERT II., and conveyed to him the lands of Melville.

II. PHILIP, ancestor of the MELVILLES of Glenbervie. This branch ended in the male line in 1468, when ALEXANDER MELVILLE of Glenbervie left a dau. and sole heir, ELIZABETH m. to Sir John Auchinleck, of Auchinleck; and her granddau., ELIZABETH AUCHINLECK, carried the barony to her husband, SIR WILLIAM DOUGLAS, 2nd son of Archibald, 5th Earl of Angus.

III. WALTER.

The 3rd son,

WALTER DE MELVILLE, was grandfather of

SIR JOHN DE MELVILLE, one of the principal men of Scotland who agreed to the marriage of Queen MARGARET with Prince Edward of England, in 1290; and who swore fealty to EDWARD I. in 1296. From him we pass to his lineal descendant,

SIR JOHN MELVILLE, of Raith, who had charters, jointly with his wife, Helen Napier, of the king's lands of Murdocarney, in Fife, dated 23 May, 1536, and 23 Oct. 1542. He enjoyed the confidence of JAMES V., who appointed him master-general of the ordnance, and captain-general of the castle of Dunbar, having previously knighted him. Sir John, in the minority of Queen MARY, was, however, convicted of treason, and executed towards the end of 1549. He m. Helen, eldest dau. of Sir Alexander Napier, of Merchistoun, and had issue,

The 2nd son,

SIR ROBERT MELVILLE, of Murdocarney, on his return from France, where he held some official employments, was sworn of the privy council of Scotland, and accredited ambassador to England in 1562. In 1567, he had a cha[rter] of the hereditary office of keeper of the palace of Linlithg[ow] and was sent a second time ambassador to England [in] 1587, to endeavour to prevent the execution of MARY Q[ueen] of Scots; which duty he discharged with so much boldn[ess] before the council, that ELIZABETH menaced his life, [and] would have imprisoned him, but for the influence of [his] colleague, the master of Gray. Lineage of Lesley, Earls of Leven.

This family is a branch of the very ancient and historic house of Lesly or Leslie, Earls of Rothes.

WILLIAM LESLEY, who flourished in the reign of King JAMES II. and III., got charters under the Great Seal of the lands and barony of Balquhain, &c., and left (with several other sons), ALEXANDER, who succeeded him, and carried on the line of the family of Balquhain, and WILLIAM, from whom was lineally descended,

ALEXANDER LESLEY of Kininvie, who left issue two sons, ALEXANDER, who succeeded him in the lands of Kininvie, and

GEORGE LESLY of Drummuir, who m. Mary, dau. of Stewart of Kilcowie, by whom he had a son,

GEORGE LESLY, a brave soldier, who had the command of the garrison in the castle of Blair in the reign of King JAMES VI.; he m. Anne, dau. of Stewart of Ballechin, by whom he had a son,

SIR ALEXANDER LESLEY, one of the most noted soldiers of his time, remarkable for his coolness and courage, and his great knowledge in the military art. Lesley first acted as a volunteer in Lord Vere's regiment in Holland, where he soon rose to the degree of a captain. He then went to Sweden, and entered into the service of GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS, and behaved so gallantly, that that warlike monarch raised him to the rank of a lieutenant-general, and then to that of field-marshal of his armies. In 1628, when the town of Stralsund was besieged by a victorious army, under the command of Count Walsten, and reduced almost to the last extremity, the King of Sweden sent General Lesly to take upon him the command of the garrison, and he there acted with such singular resolution and conduct, that he obliged the Count to raise the siege. The burghers were so sensible of the great service Lesly had done them, that they struck several medals in his honour, some of which have been preserved in the family. In 1630, Lesly drove the Imperialists entirely out of Rugen, and continued in the Swedish service with high distinction until the troubles in Scotland brought him home. He was in 1638, invited by the Covenanters to take upon him the command of their army, which he accepted, and was made governor of the castle of Edinburgh in March, 1639. In 1640 he invaded England at the head of the Scotch army, and defeated a party of the king's troops under the command of Lord Conway, at Newburn, and took possession of Newcastle. At the treaty with the king at Ripon, General Lesley was one of the parliament's commissioners, and the king was so well pleased with the general's behaviour, that he created him LORD BALGONY, and EARL OF LEVEN, by patent dated 11 Oct. 1641, with remainder to the heirs male of his body. After going in 1642 to Ireland to suppress the insurrection there, Lesly, Earl of Leven, had again in 1643 the command of the Scotch army that was sent to the assistance of the parliament's forces against the king; and the victory at Marston Moor in 1644 was chiefly ascribed to him. He was appointed in 1647 lord-general of Scotland. Notwithstanding his support of the parliamentarians, Lesly showed himself afterwards more loyal than otherwise, owing to his disapproval of the king's murder. After that event, none appeared more forward than the Earl of Leven in raising an army, and restoring King CHARLES II. He served as a volunteer against OLIVER CROMWELL at the battle of Dunbar, and heartily joined and concurred with the royalists in every measure for the restoration; but when he, with others of the royal party had a meeting in Angus, to concert matters for their future conduct, General Monk, who then besieged Dundee, having got intelligence of their meeting, sent a strong party in the night, surprised and took them prisoners at Alyth in Angus, and transferred the veteran Earl of Leven, with several others, prisoners to London, where they were confined in the Tower. The earl remained incarcerated there, and suffered sequestration and many other hardships, till by the mediation of the Queen of SWEDEN he obtained his liberty, and was so sensible of the service her majesty had done him, that he went over to Sweden in person to make his acknowledgments, and was there received and entertained with great respect, in honour of his former services. He at last returned to his own country, retired to his seat, Balgony, in Fife, and d. there at a very advanced age in 1662. The Earl m. Agnes, dau. of Renton of Billy, by whom he had two sons and five daus.,

I. Gustavus, who d. before his father, without issue.

IV. Barbara, m. to Sir John Ruthven of Dunglass.

The Earl of Leven was s. by his grandson,

ALEXANDER, 2nd Earl of Leven, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir William Howard, sister of Charles, Earl of Carlisle, by whom he had two daus., MARGARET and CATHERINE. This Earl caused the following alteration to be made in the descent of his title and lands. He by bond of tailzie of 13th February, 1663, obliged himself to make a resignation of his estates and honours in favour of himself and the heirs male of his body, which failing, to the eldest heir female procreated, or to be procreated, of the body of the said Earl, or of the bodies of his heirs male, without division, the said heir female marrying a gentleman of the surname of Leslie, or who shall assume that name, which failing, to the second son of John, Earl of Rothes, and the heirs male of his body, which failing, to the second son procreated or to be procreated betwixt the Lord Melville and Catharine Leslie his spouse, and the heirs male of the said second son's body, which failing, to the second son procreated or to be procreated betwixt the Earl of Wemyss and Margaret Leslie his wife, and the heirs male of the said second son's body, which failing, to the heirs male, whatever, of the said Earl of Leven; which all failing, to his heirs and assignees whatsoever. The King by his signature of 13th February, 1664, ordered a charter to that effect to be expedited under the great seal, and the same was accordingly done, 7th September, 1665. Mag. Sig L., lxi., No. 23. See Morison's Decisions, 14380. It should be further remarked that the following events in respect to this bond and charter have happened; 1.
